BUSINESS &
ACCOUNT LEDGER
1850-1878

The Andrew Wilmore Anderson (AWA) Business and Account Ledger

The original of the Andrew Wilmore Anderson Ledger, in the Nabb Research Center’s Wicomico Historical Society archival collection, dates approximately from 1850-1878. The ledger appears to function as both an account ledger for his business and a daybook-diary of activities concerning himself and his family. In his will, probated 13 June 1876, he leaves his son Perry Harrison Anderson his home plantation of 283 acres and his daughter, Mary Virginia Pollitt, wife of Anthony, a 260 acre farm, a 91 acre farm, and additional acreage plus his piano forte and other furnishings. He was obviously a successful businessman and farmer, probably a member of the Anderson family whose agricultural-industrial holdings were accumulated during the mid-late 19th century along Rockawalkin Creek and known as Anderson Mills.

Throughout the ledger, Anderson’s spelling is phonetic and offers great insight into the local accent of the period and the ingenuity of Mr. Anderson. The reader must keep the phonetic spelling in mind when reading the ledger in order to determine the meanings of his entries. Below are examples of several of the entries of interest:

Spelling samples: holed (hauled) meshuer (measure), commshun (commission), austers (oysters); domestick (domestic fabric), gethrin (gathering); waid (weighed) pertaters (potatoes), and perhaps most exotic of all spellings – callearnbouz for Collier boys.

Names: The majority of the entries in his ledger are for people living in the Wicomico Creek and Quantico areas of Wicomico County, Maryland. Among the names (also spelled phonetically) found are Rider, Taylor, Anderson, Goslee, Mitchell, Brewington, Kennerly, Huffington, Dixon, Twilley, Ballard, Price, Moore, Williams, Griffith, Mills, Toadvine, Owens, Moore, Humphreys, Robertson, Slemmons, Crawford, Waller, Burkett, Filippo, Bounds, Jones, Ackworth, Wales, Bailey, Hayman, Dashiell, Howard, Gale, Weatherly, Claywell, Dennis, Marvel, Cottman, Elsey, Pollitt, Tilghman, Rounds, Messick, Dorman, Spencer, Rhiall, and Parsons. See index provided in back.

Contents: Much of the ledger deals with hogs which have been butchered and the bacon and pork which has been sold to local purchasers and to Baltimore. The owner also deals with amounts of wheat; lots of wool; thousands of pounds of herring; lard; oats, sugar, striped cotton; coffee; beef; huge numbers of cords of wood cut; feet of wooden plank, fodder, stacks of hay; and bushels of corn. These are the most common listings in the ledger, although there are many interesting tidbits scattered throughout the ledger. He also lists the names and pay of workers who cut wood and butchered hogs for him.

Miscellaneous Contents: Scattered randomly within the ledger (and on loose pages) are educational information about Anderson’s own children, such as the days his daughter and son attended school, clothing which he had made for them as well as for himself; shoes which he purchased for his children. He seems sometimes to have spent lavishly on clothing--cashmere vests, pants, coats and other clothing for himself and his children.

Medicine: Anderson also provides information about trips to the doctor (Morris) and blisters and purges which were given by the doctor; and Samuel J S Ker of Whitehaven (black child taken to him): particular comments: “sine if the medicine (medinson), was mine a patient died on the second day (p. 9) Also included are varieties of medicine purchased for sick members of his family (p. 14); and homemade prescriptions and self-cures.

Below is a further sampling of other types of information found in this interesting ledger:

1. Descriptions of how to make an axletree (pg. 0); how to measure a corn house (pg. 2); Anderson also describes in great detail the number of corn hills in a certain piece of ground.
2. Money paid for riding in the stage.
3. Trips to Salisbury (p. 14).
4. Serving as judge.
5. Serving as juror; county levy.
6. Enlistment in the army (p. 87).
7. Loan transactions with neighbors and how he plans to deal with the loan if the yoke of oxen aren’t returned.
8. Somerset County Court Terms service on jury; levy; mileage to Polls; county levy.
9. Cattle in the woods, numbers and amounts and to whom they belonged.
10. Age of mules and when purchased; tallies up the names of his slaves and their values.
11. Periodically he lists an entire estate contents (p. 38); turkeys; hire of cows; ferry boat; measuring of how much wood in swamp and other places).
12. Cure for piles and other ailments (pg. 146).
13. Between pages 48 and 49 there is a torn ½ page. On the back is a note:
Rebecah Fletcher was born Feb. 8th 1779
Deceast January 23rd 1854
Aged 81 years a 11 months and 15 days
She was the mother of A.W. Anderson
14. Describes Charles Dashiell getting on board of US Steamer, those who saw him board and then other descriptions of men and travel to the Steamer.
15. His house must have served as an inn or tavern since on July 22 he records “to 2 diners and horse; 1 supper, I don’t know whether they got the 4 drunks or no... horse fed; (p. 17) Susan Dashiell and Peggy moved in the house.”
16. At certain times he questions whether he has paid more on a bill than he should have.

The Andrew Wilmore Anderson (AWA) Business and Account Ledger

Title, Date and Location: The Andrew Wilmore Anderson (AWA) Business and Account Ledger dates to roughly 1850-1878. The majority of the entries are for people in the Wicomico Creek and Quantico areas.

Spelling: Throughout the ledger, Anderson's spelling is phonetic; for example-- holed (hauled) meshuer (measure), commshun (commission), austers (oysters); domestick (domestic fabric), gethrin (gathering); waid (weighed) pertaters (potatoes), and perhaps most exotic of all spellings – callearnbouz for Collier boys.

Contents: Much of the ledger deals with hogs which have been butchered and the bacon and pork which has been sold to local purchasers and to Baltimore. The owner also deals with amounts of wheat; lots of wool; thousands of pounds of herring; lard; Oats, suger, striped cotton; coffee; Beef; huge numbers of Cords of wood cut; feet of wooden plank, fodder, stacks of hay; Gathering of corn and amounts and bushels of corn. These are the most common listings in the ledger, although there are many interesting tidbits scattered throughout the ledger. He also lists the names and pay of workers who cut wood and butchered hogs for him.

Miscellaneous Contents: Scattered randomly within the ledger (and on loose pages) are educational information about Anderson's own children, such as the days his daughter and son attended school, clothing which he had made for them as well as for himself; shoes which he purchased for his children. He seems sometimes to have spent lavishly on clothing--Cashmere Vests, pants, coats and other clothing for himself and his children.

Medicine: Anderson also provides information about trips to the doctor (Morris) and blisters and purges which were given by the doctor; and Samuel J S Ker of Whitehaven (black child taken to him): particular comments: " sine if the medicine (medinson), was mine a patient died on the second day (p. 9) Also included are varieties of medicine purchased for sick members of his family (p. 14); and home made prescriptions and self-cures.

Below is a further sampling of the types of information found in this interesting ledger which is, in reality, a combination diary-daybook-ledger.

1. Descriptions of how to make an axletree; How to measure a corn house; Anderson also describes in great detail the number of corn hills in a certain piece of ground
2. Money paid for riding in the stage;
3. Trips to Salisbury (p. 14)

9. Cattle in the woods, numbers and amounts and to whom they belonged;
10. Age of mules and when purchased; tallys up the names of his slaves and their values.
11. Periodically he lists an entire estate contents (p. 38); turkeys; hire of cows; ferry boat; measuring of much wood In swamp and other places)

At certain times he questions whether he has paid more on a bill than he should have.

Describes Charles Dashiell getting on board of US Steamer, those who saw him board and then other descriptions of men and travel to the Steamer.

His house must have served as an inn or tavern since on July 22 he records" to 2 diners and horse; 1 supper, I don't know whether they got the 4 drunks or no... horse fed; (p. 17) Susan Dashiell and Peggy moved in the house

March 24 1876 Cure for the Piles Take hogs lard led take a Small Bar of led Rub it in the lard till you get the lard as near the collar of the led as you can, take sum sulfer and stir it, together, tak som quick lime and siur or mix
it together, likewise sum Brown shuger.
The above 5 artikles to gether as aforesaid by the use of it a fue times, on the aflected parts, has never failed to make a purmint cure. For ring worms or cruflis tetter or cancers taken-ing in times , I believe it will be Equeal as good for the last cases I have menched, I am tring it at Present and have found it to be a grate benefit it is a very pleasant ointment & stops the echng;
